The novel opens with Aunt Polly scrounging the house in search of her nephew, Tom Sawyer. She finds him in the closet, discovers that his hands are covered with jam, and prepares to give him a whipping. Tom cries out theatrically, "Look behind you!" and when Aunt Polly turns, Tom escapes over the fence. After Tom is gone, Aunt Polly reflects wistfully on Tom's mischief and how she lets him get away with too much.

Tom comes home at suppertime, refreshed and well told about his adventure. During supper, Aunt Polly asks him to tell her about his adventures. She asks if he had been skipped school that afternoon and went outdoors, and Tom confirms that he had. Aunt Polly is satisfied, but Tom's half brother, Ben, asks if Tom has seen the chart he was supposed to bring home. Tom has chosen the chart himself to disguise his doings.

Tom goes out of the house to wash his hands of whistling. While wandering the streets of St. Petersburg, Tom meets Joe, a boy who is looking for a partner to help him rob a store. Joe is loved by the store's owner's daughter, who is also in love with Tom, but Tom is not interested. Joe and Tom eventually chase the newcome all the way home.

When he returns home in the evening, Tom finds Aunt Polly waiting for him. She notices his dirtied clothes and resolves to make him work the next day, a Saturday, as punishment.

On Saturday morning, Aunt Polly sends Tom out to whitewash the fence. Joe passes by, and Tom tries to get him to do some of the whitewashing in return for a "white alley," a kind of marble. Tom almost agrees, but Aunt Polly appears and chases him off, leaving Tom alone with his labor.
